

The federal Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) has awarded the Colorado Department of Health Care Policy and Financing (HCPF) a $2 million health care innovation grant to further the state's plan to integrate behavioral health and physical health care. This grant is only for planning. After HCPF submits its finalized plans to CMS, if CMS approves, then Colorado will receive grant funding that will pay for services at the provider organization level. The state's proposed plan, called the Statewide Health Innovations Fostering Transformation program (SHIFT), focuses on integrating physical and behavioral health services for high-risk, high-cost individuals and co-occurring chronic disease and behavioral health issues, including mental health and addiction disorders...
